Q: What do you think the Department could have done to retain you as an employee?

A: "The Department could care, provide help, check in with their deputies. We were left on our own after our incident. I tried to get help on my own after the incident, with no success on the treatment and I didn't know where else to turn.

"My supervisors eventually changed after the incident and two of the new supervisors were able to get me help. I eventually had to get representation because workers comp is awful to work with and they kept switching my doctors.

"Starting the process over and over did more harm than good."

Q: What do you think the Department could have done to retain you as an employee?

A: "Not treat me like a criminal when I go to the doctor because I got hurt during a UOF. Not treat me as if I lied about a very real injury and then use all of my vacation, sick, comp hours and leaving me four months without pay.

"Not ignore me when I reached out for help because I was addicted to narcotic pain medication, leaving me to figure out how to get off medications on my own."
